WALT: Use punctuation accurately

Read Whistle for a dog pages 18 to 21 again

The story has a lot of speech in it. When people speak in a story we need to use inverted commas (speech marks). The inverted commas go around the words that people speak.

Here you can see the inverted commas around the words that Lucy speaks.

"Can I have a dog?" asked Lucy.

"I don't want a rabbit," said Lucy.

These sentences are missing their inverted commas. Copy the sentences and put in the inverted commas. For the first four, I have made the words the person speaks red to help you. The last three are a challenge to see if you can put the inverted commas in the correct place without any help.

I don't want a rabbit, said Lucy.

I want a dog to live in our house, said Lucy.

You can have a cat, said Dad.

I don't want a cat, said Lucy.

Cats sleep all the time, said Lucy.

You can have a small dog, said Mum.

I don't want a small dog, said Lucy.

Please remember to photograph your work and send it to Miss Fox using the portfolio on Class DOJO.
